“...Nor Angels, Nor Rulers”

As we open the book of Romans, we will walk through the ancient city of Rome and become acquainted with the dusty, tired, much travelled Paul.

To understand this difficult letter written to the small Christian church in Rome, we must understand that the concepts are not abstract but concrete when viewed through the very real circumstances of the fascinating, yet barbaric culture of the Roman Empire. In this way we are once again amazed by how Paul’s faith in Christ Jesus gave him a stunning, innovative and liberating reality which made him utterly fearless.

Campus ministries challenge social and intellectual centers of power with a prophetic call to be merciful, just, and generous in their institutional habits and hopes. The campus churches of many denominations and traditions is called together to herald the coming of God's reign. Celebrating our unity in Christ is a vital part of the ministry.

Next Week's Offering: Citizens for Public Justice (CPJ)

Our Church Family

We give thanks that Corry's brother, Henry, has come out of his coma and recognizes family members. While progress is slow, the family is thankful for it and covets our continued prayers for Henry's recovery.

Our congratulations to Bradley and Brittany with the birth of their son Brennan Christopher George on July 15. Baby and new family are doing well! We wish you God's blessings!

Congratulations to Garry (Tue), Catherina (Thu) and Andy (Sat) who will each celebrate their birthday this coming week.

When God Interrupts put a crack in my false understanding that the Christian life was to be happy and successful with its honest exploration of the pain and suffering we all experience in this life. Suffering isn't good, but God is not absent in it. This book explores this seeming paradox." (248.4 BAR)
